

MANAGER, POLICY & REGULATORY AFFAIRS
Australian Livestock Exporters' Council (ALEC)

The Australian Livestock Exporters' Council is seeking a Manager, Policy and Regulatory Affairs for the peak industry council representing Australia's $1.6 billion livestock export industry.

Reporting to the CEO, the successful candidate will play an important role in developing policy, being a primary advocate in regulatory affairs and working to represent the interests of ALEC members.

The successful applicant will be a dynamic policy and regulatory affairs manager, with a proven professional track-record in government, the private sector or an industry organisation.

Holding tertiary qualifications, you will have strong written and oral communications, with experience in developing formal policy submissions. Prior experience in the agricultural sector and an understanding of highly regulated industries will be viewed favourably.

A key feature of the role is the day-to-day management of ALEC's relationship with the Federal Department of Agriculture and Water Resources (DAWR), as well as collaborative engagement with other agropolitical and advocacy organisations.

The Manager will represent ALEC at various industry, policy and advocacy forums, be in a position to lead debate and to be called on to provide strategic advice to the CEO and the ALEC Board on policy and regulatory matters.

The Manager will also regularly consult directly with ALEC members and support industry activities across Australia.

The successful candidate will play a pivotal role in managing policy and regulatory matters in the context of creating a sustainable future for Australia's live trade and promoting animal welfare. This will include the current review of the Australian Standards for the Export of Livestock (ASEL) and work relating to the Livestock Global Assurance Program (LGAP).

While the role is based at NFF House in Canberra, regular travel will be required and irregular work hours will be experienced during busy periods.

A competitive remuneration package will be offered.

Interested candidates can apply by forwarding a cover letter and resumé to:
